The screenshot shows the Compass interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with 'Richmond Studio' and 'Compass'. Below it is a 'Products' section with various icons for different resources like 'eLL 3', 'Fly high', and 'eWorkbook'. The main content area is titled 'Topic 1 How does science work?' and contains a science activity. The activity includes a video player, a list of terms (liquids, shape, size, solids), and a text box with a science-related question. The interface is clean and user-friendly.

Note: Use the dropdown arrows to view the activities in full screen, complete them, and click Submit.

This screenshot is similar to the first one but includes red circles highlighting specific elements. One circle is around the 'Full Screen' icon (a square with a diagonal line) in the top right corner. Another circle is around the 'Submit' button at the bottom right of the activity area. A red arrow points from the 'Submit' button towards the 'Full Screen' icon, indicating the sequence of actions.

This screenshot shows the Compass interface in full-screen mode. The activity content is larger and more prominent. The 'Submit' button is clearly visible at the bottom right. The interface is designed to be easy to use in a larger view.

This screenshot shows the Compass interface after a successful submission. A modal dialog box is displayed in the center, containing a green checkmark and the text: 'Submitted', 'Submission has been successful. Well done! Your score has been sent to the markbook.' Below this, a table shows the user's performance: 'You answered 5 / 5', 'Correct 5', and 'Score 100%'. The 'Submit' button is now disabled, and a 'Close' button is visible.
